

Abstract of EP 0882466

Device for proportioned administration, in particular infusion, a medicine liquid, also a) a container (1), from which the medicine liquid with the feed motion of a plug (2) to their administration proportioned by a discharge opening (4) one displaces, and b) characterized in the discharge opening (4) to the container (1) attached catheter (8), whose front end turned away from the discharge opening (4) connected with an administration needle (9) or connectable is, by the fact that c) between the discharge opening (4) and the administration needle (9) in a passage area of the medicine liquid a valve (30) is arranged and d) the valve (30) to preventing a self emptying a flow on the front end of the catheter (8) too permits only if the liquid pressure acting in this direction is larger than a pressure resting on the valve (30) due to the dead weight of a liquid column in the device.